THE SENTINEL.

Monday, January 7, 1867.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.

Mr. Stevens introduced this morning his long threatened bill for "reinstating the eleven States which lately formed the Government called the Confederate States of America!" He followed the introduction of this measure by a violent phillippic against the Supreme Court, and vehemently pressed upon the House the indispensible necessity of its immediate passage, declaring the utter hopelessness of the Radical cause unless Congress should now act with courage and energy. The scheme was at once opposed by Pike, a Radical Representative from the State of Maine, who declared that he did not desire the admission of the unrepresented States upon any terms whatever. It is now evident that the Radicals cannot agree upon any conceivable plan of restoring the Union. It is a necessity with them to keep things as they are.

THE IMPEACHMENT.

There is good authority for saying that a resolution directing the impeachment of President Johnson will be offered in the House of Representatives, on Monday next, by Mr. Ashley, of Ohio. The vote in favor of impeachment has been closely canvassed, and the friends of the resolution say they have no doubt of its passage. The President was notified to-day of the fact, and replied that he was entirely prepared to meet the issue.—World.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA MURDER CASES.

The special House committee appointed to investigate the murder of negro soldiers in South Carolina, and the subsequent conviction by military commission, and the release of the parties under habeas corpus, have returned from their labors, and find the facts as heretofore published. Secretary Stanton, however, sustains the release of the parties, and the committee do not feel disposed to recommend any action in the premises.—ib.

DAVIS, SURRATT, AND THE ASSASSINATION PLOT.

The House Judiciary Committee, who are still charged with the investigation of alleged complicity of Jeff. Davis in the assassination conspiracy, contemplate taking the testimony of John Surratt on his arrival here and before his indictment.—Ib.

WILMINGTON, DEL. Jan. 3.—The message of Governor Saulsbury, presented to the Legislature of this State, yesterday, strongly opposes the constitutional amendment and takes ground against its ratification. He refers favorably to the railroad enterprise of the State and propo ses a State library, a penitentiary, and a revision of the penal code in reference to the punishment of negroes. He says, "the experience during the whole past history of this State shows that the sale of this class of our population into slavery, as a punishment for crime, was not only the most salutary restraint against its commission, but the surest prevention against its commission." He recommends laws restraining negro immigration into the State; questions the constitutionality of the civil rights bill, and says he will enforce the laws against negroes possessing arms.

MR. AND MRS. DAVIS.—It is stated authoritatively in the Norfolk papers, that Mr. Davis is in destitute circumstances, and that measures are being taken in that city for the relief of his suffering family. In the midst of the many deserving calls upon our generous people for charity, can they not spare time and means to pay, in part, this sacred debt of honor? We trust that some steps to this end will be taken at once.

It is asserted that Judge Advocate General Holt is the author of the violent articles against the Supreme Court because of its decision against military commissions.

A prepossessing young man in New York, who claims to be a son of Lord Byron, has to have a guard of policemen with him to prevent the women from eating him up.

The effect of a Russian vapor bath caused a man in New York to dash through a window and run through several streets in an entirely nude state.

More than two thousand grand jury presentments have been made against the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for omitting stamp receipts of Internal Revenue.

BOSTON, January 4.—Governor Bullock, in his message, eulogises the constitutional amendment, and recommends its adoption. He expresses the earnest hope that Congress, having coincided in the principle in the case of the District of Columbia, it will now complete the work so auspiciously begun by establishing universal suffrage as the irreversible law of the land.

The Richmond correspondent of the New York Times, referring to the Howard Amendment in the Virginia Legislature, writes that "the possibility—it was nothing more—that the Amendment would be ratified is gone."

PAYMENT TO SOUTHERN CLAIMANTS.—We learn that over $1,000,000 was paid last month to Southern claimants for cotton captured and confiscated by the Union troops during the recent war, and which was claimed to not have been legally taken from the owners.—Chronicle.

A sentimental young man thus freely expresses himself: "Even as nature benevolently guards the rose with thorns, so does she endow women with pins."

The newest Yankee notion is an umbrella with a gutter round the edge and a spout at one corner.

General Sterling Price and his three daughters have arrived at New Orleans, from Cordova, Mexico.

A country editor tries to insult the President by calling him "the thing." Yes, he is the very thing.—Prentice.

The Washington Chronicle calls Mr. Davis, now in prison, "the arch traitor now living luxuriously at Fortress Monroe, at the expense of the government!"

The President's Message was telegraphed to the San Francisco journals, and published in that city on the evening of its delivery to Congress.

At a printers' festival, lately, the following was one of the toasts: "Woman—Second only to the press in the dissemination of news."

THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, SEATON GALES. } Editors.

Monday Evening, Jan. 7, 1867.

THE STATES which seceded have not lost their identity as States. They are as much States now as they were in 1860. This is the theory upon which the war was waged against them, to compel them to resume their allegiance to the government. Every department of the government has been conducted, from the outbreak of the war until the present time, in full and express recognition of this doctrine. Congress, particularly, has been especially lavish of its declarations that the Union was unbroken and indissoluble. At various stages of the conflict, it proclaimed this fact in the most emphatic terms, and up to within a few short weeks all its legislation has been predicated upon that assumption. It is reserved for such latter-day constitutional lawyers as Stevens, Holden and Pool, to maintain a different view; but it is too late for Congress to repudiate its solemn enunciations for the purpose of adoptiag a dogma more in consonance with the mad and revolutionary schemes of the party in power.

If it is admitted that the lately insurgent States are still States, and it cannot be successfully denied when the Radicals attempt legislation for them as though they were not States, they are involved in the difficulty (which it will be the province of the Supreme Court of the Union to declare, if they shall persist,) of doing that which they not only have no authority for doing, but which the Constitution positively and emphatically prohibits. The following section of the 4th. Article is express on this subject:

"New States may be admitted by Congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or created within the jurisdiction of any other State, nor any State be formed by the juncture of two or more States, or parts of States, without the consent of the States concerned, as well as of Congress."

"New States may be admitted." Not a word is said about the admission of old States, because it was not contemplated that old States would ever get out of the Union,—except, perhaps, by a successful revolution, and then the whole question would be settled. If they were in the Union, they were States and needed no admission; but if they were out of the Union, they were not a part of it, and the government had nothing to do with them.

Small Farms.

We have heretofore endeavored to impress upon the land holders in this State the great importance of so disposing their lands, that the greatest possible quantity should be brought, at an early day, under the highest state of cultivation. Even if a large number of steady laborers can be employed and profitably worked on large farms, which we deem now a difficult task, yet it strikes us, that the difficulties of managing a large number and the greater proclivity to demoralization under such circumstances, preponderate in favor of small farms. Morever, one of the greatest objects of landholders, who are not inclined to sell now, should be to improve and bring into a high state of cultivation as large an area as possible. The experience of the free labor States shows most conclusively, that the advantage, in this respect, is vastly in favor of the small farm plan. The following experiment, which we take from the Wilmington Dispatch, is to the point, and teaches a valuable practical lesson:

"It is stated that a farmer of Tyrrell county, in this State, being possessed of a large estate and not being able to obtain labor, adopted the following plan to induce laborers to cultivate it: He measured off ten lots of fifteen or twenty acres each, and built plain but comfortable cottages upon them. He then went to New York and easily obtained ten good men with families, having offered to settle them upon his estate upon the following conditions: They were to work for him at a fixed valuation for their services for four days in each week until their wages amounted to the value of their lots of land with the houses thereon. The other two days they worked on their own account, and this time was ample to cultivate whatever they could raise, the employer furnishing the teams they needed on those days. These were the chief points in the engagement.

The result of this contract was that the farmer's lands were better worked, and with less trouble to him, than they had ever been, and he never made such crops before."

BREAD.—The Wilmington Dispatch truly says that the great question, which now disturbs the South, is the question of bread. It is a struggle for future existence, both corporeal and political. Yet the question of our political existence has been so entirely taken into the keeping of the dominant party of the North, that the Southern conservative people and presses have, in a great measure, left it to them, except in so far as they have been forced to notice matters submitted to them, or when the course of Southern Radicals rendered it necessary. What we have said has been mainly to correct the error and slanders of the Southern Radicals.

AGRICULTURAL.—An Agricultural Society has recently been formed in New Hanover County, in this State. The question of labor was properly considered, and correct principles laid down for its regulation, viz: requiring certified proof of fidelity on the part of laborers and fixing uniform prices for labor, as both advantageous to employer and employee. The following excellent resolution was adopted, which we cordially commend to all:

"Resolved, That we hereby sanction and will adopt all fair, honorable and expedient means for improving the mental, moral and spiritual condition of the laboring classes, believing as we do that such improvement will be alike just and advantageous to employer and employee; and we reiterate our oft repeated intentions to deal at all times fairly and justly with that portion of the colored race, who have been recently freed under the government of the United States."

Our State Charities.

Report of the Principal of the North Carolina Institute for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind, for the fiscal year ending Sept. 1, 1866, Raleigh: Wm. E. Pell, State Printer.

This report, with accompanying documents, makes a pamphlet of some twenty pages, and presents the affairs of this noble Institution in a very encouraging light. The record which it makes is most flattering to the industry and capacity of its most zealous and efficient Principal, W. J. Palmer, Esq.

There is nothing of which our people should be so justly proud as their two public Charities, and where they have been so liberally sustained, it is a source of gratification to learn that the munificence of the State has been judiciously directed. That it has been so, in the case of both of them, the Committees appointed by the Legislature to investigate their condition have fully testified.

During the last session at the Institution under notice, the Principal states the number of pupils to have been sixty-two,—of whom forty-one were deaf and dumb and twenty-one blind. Only nine of these were paying pupils, the remainder being supported at the expense of the State.

At the termination of the war, the buildings, &c., were in bad condition, but the amount of the annual and special appropriations have been sufficient to make most of the necessary repairs.

In the literary department of the Institution, the progress of the pupils has been satisfactory. Their moral and intellectual instruction embraces the study of the Scriptures, Language, Geography, History, Arithmetic, Penmanship, &c. Vocal and instrumental music also form an important and delightful part of the education of the Blind, and some of the pupils in this department evince decided talent.

The Institution not only presents all necessary facilities for ministering to the moral and mental needs of its inmates, but affords, also, thorough means of mechanical instruction, whereby the deaf mutes and blind may, after the termination of their connection with the Asylum, earn a livelihood for themselves and become useful working members of society. The mechanical departments consist of a Printing Office, a Bindery, a Broom Manufactory and a Shoe Shop, and are not only self-supporting, but a source of actual revenue. The Bindery, hereafter, will be more so, as, by a resolution adopted by the General Assembly of 1865-66, the binding for the State is to be hereafter executed there. The Principal suggests the introduction of the trades of brush and mattress-making for the blind, and, as he does not consider the education of the unfortunates under his charge complete without instruction in some branch of industry, he very appropriately recommends that all the mechanical departments be carefully fostered.

The Principal justly expresses his gratification at having been enabled to carry on the operations of the Institution with but little intermission during the past five years, when so many similar Institutions in the South were compelled to suspend their exercises. He says: "During the war, the officers of the State and Confederate governments gave us all the assistance in their power, and, since its termination, the Legislative and Executive officers of the State have manifested the same noble spirit. His Excellency, Gov. Worth, has always been a warm friend of the charitable Institutions of the State.

The officers of the Institution are: Willie J. Palmer, Principal; James A. Leach, Vice Principal; W. J. Young, Teacher in Blind Department; Jno. Simpson and Narcissa J. Dupree, (both educated at the Institution,) Assistants; Chas. M. and Mrs. L. E. Grow, Teachers in Deaf Mute Department; Mrs. S. E. Young, Teacher of Music; Mrs. E. A. Gorman, Matron; Thos. B. Berry, Foreman of Printing office; and J. J. Chaplin, Foreman of Book-bindery, &c. To all of these officials, together with various subordinates, the Principal expresses his acknowledgements. Their labors have been intelligent, assiduous and successful.

The present session of the Institution, which has commenced since the date of the Principal's Report, has opened under more favorable auspices than any previous one. More than eighty scholars have already entered, and there are applications pending, which will increase the number to ninety.

Long may the State of North Carolina continue to wear her beautiful twin jewels of charity on her brow!

THE WATCHMAN.—The readers of this most valuable paper, which has been edited and published in New York city, for the last twelve months, by Rev. Dr. Deems, will deeply regret to learn that it has been suspended, at least for the present. The high qualities of the paper, in many respects, entitled it to the warmest support, but, as its chief support was drawn from the South, we regret that the poverty of the Southern people, and the inefficiency of our mail system, prevented such a support as was necessary to sustain it as it should have been. We also learn with regret, that the heavy tax upon the physical and mental energies of Dr. Deems have been entirely too great for his rather feeble system to bear, and this, of itself, would have been a sufficient cause for him to abandon the enterprise. We should be glad if it could be revived on a plan by which the Dr. could be retained as one of its principal Editors. There is labor enough, on such a paper, to employ at least four Editors.

THE SUPREME COURT'S EXPECTED DECISIONS. It will, in our judgment, decide that no State can so get out of the Union as, under the Constitution, to be relieved of the obligation or deprived of the right of representation in the Congress of the United States. We feel sure that it will decide that the citizens of the State of Virginia have never been, either by secession ordinances, or Confederate authority, or actual war, relieved from the duty and the right of electing Senators and Representatives. We believe it will decide against the folly of undertaking to convert one of the original thirteen States into a territory, and will vindicate the indestructibility of a State as surely as that of the Congress, the Executive, or the Court itself. —National Intelligencer, 3d.

STATE NEWS.

—We have heretofore inadvertently omitted to notice that Mr. Abner S. Williams has retired from the Williamston Expositor, and that Mr. Sylvester Hassell, a gentleman of fine attainments, having purchased the establishment, will hereafter conduct the paper. Those who know Mr. Hassell predict for him a brilliant Editorial career. We wish him a pleasant and successful voyage in the craft.

—The ladies in the vicinity of Averasboro', Harnett county, N. C., near which place a battle was fought on the 16th of March, 1865,—have been untiring in their efforts to rescue from oblivion the names of the heroes who fell on that occasion. The bodies of the dead have all been collected and interred in a neat cemetery near the village, and it is the wish of the ladies engaged in this work, to enclose the spot with an iron railing, and to erect there a suitable monument. To this end they solicit contributions.

—A Temperance Society and a Base Ball Club have been organized in Tarboro' within a week past.

—A sufficient amount of money has been subscribed to complete the new Episcopal church at Tarboro'. It is said the building is not surpassed in architectural beauty by any church in the South.

The Union Register, (Radical of the "straitest" sect,) published at Greensboro', calls attention to the neglected condition of Confederate graves near that place, and pledges $10, on the part of the Publishing Company, towards enclosing and otherwise caring for them.

—Tableaux, for the benefit of the Stonewall Cemetery, at Winchester, and for the Memorial Association of the State, will be given by the ladies of Kinston, and its vicinity, on Thursday and Friday nights, the 10th and 11th inst., when they will be pleased to see all their friends of the surrounding counties. The scenes have been tastefully selected and arranged.

—A negro child, about two years of age, was brutally murdered by its step-father, in Anson County, last week. Upon an examination of the body it was found that the child had been brutally whipped, its body presenting bruises and scars from the feet to the head, and its skull was crushed almost into a jelly.

Extract of a Letter to the Editors, from a Member of the Legislature.

"Since our adjournment, I have been across the border among the F. F's. They seem fully to appreciate the situation, and determined to place the old "Mother of States" on her feet again. In other words, they have gone to work. They are not "exercised" very much on the subject of politics, yet, in this particular, also, they seem to recognize the "new civilization."

The old politicians are seldom mentioned in connection with the Spring elections, but seem to be numbered with the things of the past. Every one now looks for practical, energetic men, and, from what I could learn, the candidates, who were less mixed up with ante-bellum politics, ceteris paribus, will have the advantage before the people. Old political ideas are not in keeping with present progress.

Prominent among the names of gentlemen spoken of, as the probable successor to the present Governor, is that of Maj. W. L. Sutherlin, of Danville. Judging from his reputation, he is the man for the times. He is a true Virginian, public-spirited, hospitable, proud not only of the history of his State, but also of her traditions, and fully identified with her people in interest and feeling. Already largely interested in her works of Internal Improvement, he is ever ready, with his means and services, to aid any effort for the further development of her vast resources.

Maj. Sutherlin is a profound thinker, and when he has once determined his course, he knows no such word as despondency or failure. Sanguine and hopeful himself, he enthuses, with his own spirit, every one with whom he comes in contact. Success has heretofore uniformly attested the soundness of his views, which are always large and practical. As a financier, he has few, if any, superiors. Though often solicited, heretofore, by his friends, to permit his name to be used for office, both State and Federal, he has studiously avoided mixing in politics, and I doubt his yielding to their wishes now. He certainly will not enter into a scramble for the position.

It is a source of gratification to his friends to find that his conservative and manly course, in the Convention of 1861, which won him such "golden opinions" at the time, is not forgotten by the people, though overshadowed for a time by the stirring events of the war.

While, as a matter of course, men do differ in their preferences, all who know him agree that Maj. Sutherlin is a fair specimen of the "Virginia Gentleman."

"A HIT—A PALPABLE HIT."—In the House of Representatives, on Thursday, Mr. Eldridge, of Wisconsin, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the following resolution, introduced into the House of Representatives December 4, 1862, by Hon. Thaddeus Stevens, expresses the conviction and sense of this House, to wit: "Resolved, That if any person in the employment of the United States, in either the legislative or the executive branch, should propose to make peace, or should accept, or advise the acceptance, of any such proposition, on any other basis than the integrity and entire unity of the United States and their Territories as they existed at the time of the rebellion, he will be guilty of a high crime; and that House bill 543 is clearly in violation of the spirit of said resolution; and that the same does in fact assert, or at least admit, that secessionists and rebels were successful in the dividing of the Union, and destroyed certain States of the United States, as such in the Union, degrading them into territories; and that the Hon. Thaddeus Stevens, in and by the introduction and advocacy of said bill, has manifested a mind and heart disloyal to the Constitution and the Union of the States as they existed at the time of the rebellion, and is guilty of the crime specified in said resolution, and therefore deserves the reprobation of this House.

Mr. Ashley, of Ohio, objected to the introduction of this resolution.

Mr. Eldridge said he did not desire to press it, as the gentleman named in the resolution was not then in his seat. [Laughter.] It was laid over.

Gen. A. C. Myers, late Quartermaster General of the Southern Confederacy, is at Fontainbleau, near Paris.

General N. B. Forrest has the contract to build forty-five miles of the Memphis and Little Rock Railroad.

THE INDIGNATION which the people of North Carolina express against ex-Governor Holden, the aversion shown Colonel Stokes by the people of Tennessee, and the burning words of contempt indulged in by Texans against the notorious Hamilton, are cited by Radical journals as evidences of the disloyal character of the people of those States. So, too, in other States where men are now violent Unionists, as they would have the country believe, who were formerly blatant secessionists, the people do not refrain from strong expressions of hostility against the maligners of those whom they once misled. Nor could anything be more natural. It is not their Unionism that is complained of, but their daseness. The zeal of the proselyte is always more violent than that of the veteran believer; and the ardor of the new-fledged Unionist is more excessive, and more proscriptive, too, than that of the staunch Union men who stoutly resisted the frenzy of secession, and gave way when to resist was madness. Yet these men are to be set aside entirely in the process of reconstruction by the flaming zeal of gentlemen like Messrs. Holden and Stokes, but for whose labors secession would never have been attempted. Instead of finding an argument against the loyalty of the people of the South in their repudiation of gentlemen who, by excess of loyal professions, would obscure the memory of their former errors, we should be glad that there is enough of manhood in the South to reject leaders who have proved themselves unworthy of trust by any party.—Nat. Intelligencer.

Holden, in his issue of Thursday last, says: It was the purpose of the President in May, 1865, so announced to the writer of this in the presence of several gentlemen from this State, to confiscate, for the benefit of "the poor whites and blacks," the lands of many whom he knew would apply for pardon under the $20,000 clause. If the writer of this had urged this policy upon him, we feel sure it would have been carried out. On the contrary we begged for mercy. We now regret that we did so.

Delaware River Chemical Works,
PHILADELPHIA, U. S. A.

This old established MANURE is manufactured from Bones that have not been burned or steamed, and it contains all their original organic matter. It is active in its operation, and is a fertilizer of great durability. It does not exhaust the soil like Peruvian Guano, but on the contrary permanently improves it. Previous to 1861 it was introduced into the Southern States to considerable extent, and again in 1865, where it has been used with remarkable success upon Cotton, Corn, Tobacco, and all Crops.

A trial will convince any planter of its merits. Pamphlets containing well-known Southern evidence furnished upon application to New York or Philadelphia offices.

☞ Sold by Dealers in all the principal cities and towns throughout the United States and British Provinces.

THE SENTINEL.

Monday Evening, Jan. 7, 1867.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

NEW ADVERTISEMENT.—J. B. Griffin, of Tarboro, wishes to employ a young man to teach in a private family.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION.—In addition to the names mentioned in our last, we hear Messrs. James A. Moore and J. J. Overby prominently spoken of as candidates for Commissioner in the Eastern Ward. R. M. Andrews is announced in our paper, to-day, as a candidate in the Western Ward.

FOR MUCH interesting matter, see first and fourth pages.

GREAT SUFFERING AMONG THE POOR.—We are pained to learn that the suffering among the poor, in this City, is much greater than we had supposed. We learn, from a reliable source, that the Young Men's Christian Association have had, for a month past, forty deserving families dependent on them for food and fuel, and that their funds are nearly exhausted. We hope that liberal contributions will be promptly made to aid this Association in their efforts to relieve the distressed.

All who have not been waited upon can leave their contributions with Mr. P. F. Pescud.

NEW MUSIC.—We are indebted to Geo. Willig & Co., Musical Publishers, Baltimore, for the following sheets of music:

The Zeta Psi Schottisch, dedicated to the Upsilon Chapter at the University of N. C;

The Water-Lily Polka;

Song—"Oh! how fondly I have loved thee;" and

The Love Bird. This beautiful song has already been noticed in our columns. The exquisite words are by that gifted lady, Mrs. Downing, and the music by Miss Louisiana Wilson. The piece is dedicated to Mrs. Bessie Dewey, of Charlotte.

CONFEDERATE DEAD.—The ladies of Richmond, in order to carry out their plans in the completion of the Hollywood Cemetery, near that city, as the final resting place for, and a memorial of the services of, the Confederate soldiers who fell in the late struggle near that city, have determined to hold a Hollywood Memorial Bazaar in that city, in February next. As all the Southern States are interested in this memorial and none more so than North Carolina, they solicit from the citizens of this State contributions of money, fancy articles, agricultural productions, manufactures, &c. Miss Nannie Daves, of Newbern, will take charge of all articles contributed from the Counties east of Orange, and Mrs. Thomas Dewey, of Charlotte, from those Counties west of Orange. We hope it is only necessary to suggest the plan to induce contributions.

For the Sentinel.

Dog-Matism.

The Standard says: "The dogs in all quarters are barking at us." Very sorry for that.—They probably think they are included in Thad. Stevens' Bill, and have a right to bark. It is the only way they have of voting. Besides, they have high authority:

"Let dogs delight to bark and bite,
For God hath made them so;

and men have no constitutional right to interfere.

"Some of them threaten us in anonymous letters with assassination." Don't believe a word of that. Dogs can't write letters, and never assassinate, but only

"Worry and devour each other."

"We do not regard them." Should rather think not. One who "rather courts than deprecates denunciation," cannot be expected to care much what dogs do or say.

"They are afraid to attempt to bite." Should think that very likely. A dog once bit an old woman, and the dog died. Cause why? The old woman was mad; pizened the dog.

"Many of these dogs fawned on us when we were Provisonal Governor." Very nat'ral. Dogs are mazin cute critters. They know spontaneiously who's lucky dogs—and who is'nt. They know who love to be fawned on and who won't kick 'em away. Sympathising natur are a great Institution. Did they get anything to eat by fawning—or the promise of anything—a few crumbs or so—provided they would be sure to bark unmistakably?—Eh?

"But we beg pardon of our canine friends." Granted, gentlemen, certainly, certainly. All right, gentlemen. Bow-wow-wow.

"A dog is always grateful." Not always.—Zeb Vance could tell a remarkable story about canine ingratitude.

"He seldom tears the hand that shields and saves him." Oh Lordy!—Let Zeb tell that story.

"When he fawns he does so from affection—not from fear or selfishness." Much may be said on both sides. What does Thaddeus say about his 'perience on this dogmatical question? Any selfishness—eh? or all affection?—It's an interestin' question.

"The human dog is the meanest of all dogs"
—Dat ar a fac. BOOTS & BROS.

TELEGRAPHIC.

Reported for the Sentinel, by the United States and European News Association.

Our Saturday Evening Dispatches.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5, P. M.

The Committee on Revenue frauds are here, but will return to New York in a few days. They report frauds of a most astounding character, many so cunningly covered as to be past finding out. The Committee say their labors are endless, and they will recommend a reduction of the rates so as to reduce temptation.

Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5, P. M.

In the House, to-day, in Committee of the Whole, Spalding, of Ohio, took the ground that the adoption of the Constitutional Amendment by three-fourths of the loyal States made it a part of the Constitution. Its ratification or rejection by the South was only important as indicative of submission. He said that he could not be driven out of the Republican party, but he warned the party that a resort to extreme measures would produce re-action.

Stevens said Congress stultified itself in asking rebel districts to ratify the amendment. He did not recognize the organizations in the South as governments. The Southern States were conquered provinces, having their capitals, and certain municipal institutions not yet disturbed, but which Congress could and would disturb. He would vote for the admission of no State, whose Constitution forbade negro suffrage. He had said or done nothing looking to the impeachment of the President. He regretted, however, that the matter had been held back so long, because the President was an obstruction to all loyal action and an eye-sore to all loyal men, except the gentleman from Ohio, Mr. Spalding.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.

Five buildings at Marengo, Ill., were burned last night.

The track of the old Lacrosse R. R. has been torn up, and a number of cars belonging to the Milwaukee and St. Paul's R. R. and a quantity of freight, destroyed, by some of the farm mortgagees of the road.

SANDUSKY, Jan. 7.

The train on the Cincinnati, Dayton and Lake Erie Railway was thrown from the track, on yesterday, and several persons killed and many injured.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.

A Sunday paper alleges that the frequent conflagrations of the past month have caused a panic among Insurance Companies, three of which, it alleges, on an examination, show their assets to be merely nominal.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.

The U. S. Steamer Don returned to Fort Monroe, yesterday, having been disabled off Hatteras. The Gettysburg met her there and Admiral Porter and assistant Secretary Seward embarked on her to continue their journey.

The Republican members of the House held a caucus on yesterday,—Mr. Scofield, of Penn., Chairman, and Donnelly, of Minnesota, Secretary's. Seventy were present and the subject called forth spirited discussion. The proceedings were of marked harmony.

Mr. Spalding, of Ohio, introduced a resolution, that no measure, looking towards impeachment of the President, be presented to the House, unless previously agreed on in caucus. Amended with a proviso that before final action by the caucus, the subject should be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Ashley, of Ohio, moved an amendment, to the effect that no articles of impeachment be preferred without first coming under consideration of the Caucus. Agreed to.

Mr. Stevens, of Penn., moved that the whole subject be laid upon the table. Decided in the negative by a vote of nearly two to one. The original resolution, as amended, was agreed to by a large majority.

There was a warm debate between Stevens Bingham and others, on legal questions involved in the proposed impeachment. The points raised were whether impeachment could be partly tried by the Senate of the thirty-ninth Congress: also, whether the House of Representatives of the thirty-ninth Congress could prefer articles of impeachment, which could be tried by the Senate of the fortieth Congress, or whether, should articles of impeachment be now preferred and trial not concluded at the expiration of the present Congress, they would have to be renewed in the fortieth Congress.

Mr. Stevens took the ground that the Senate did not expire with Congress, it being a perpetual body. Mr. Bingham, of Ohio, held different opinions,—arguing that, as one-third of the present Senators go out on the fourth of March, the President would not afterwards continue to be tried by a Senate composed of one-third of new members, on articles partially tried by preceding Senate. Mr. Stevens thought there was ample time for this Congress to do whatever was to be done. He was not, however, in favor of hastening matters of this kind too rapidly. He was willing to afford an apportunity for members of Congress to give due consideration to the measure proposed. He believed it ought to be done, but was not willing to go into it, unless it could be done thoroughly and certainly.

Mr. Spalding, of Ohio, opposed the proposed action very earnestly. He did not believe any good would result from it.

Mr. Higby, of California, thought it the most momentous question presented for the consideration of members of this Congress, and deprecated hasty action.

Mr. Washburne, of Ill., did not think impeachment possible, and while he believed that the President had done many things seriously objectionable, he thought the proposition of impeachment should be referred to one of the Standing Committees, in order to be regularly and dispassionately considered, before being presented for formal action.

Mr. Poutwell, of Mass., supported the proposition.

Mr. Ashley thought the work should be commenced by the present Congress.

The debate was spirited,—Mr. Bingham speaking in his impulsive style, and Mr. Stevens exhibiting a corresponding degree of earnestness. There appeared a general disposition, on the part of those present, to vote for an inquiry into the matter as to whether the President should be impeached, while a large number were of opinion that he ought to be impeached at once.

Mr. Bingham made a point that articles of impeachment should not be preferred during the present Congress, for want of time, and reminded gentlemen that the trial of Warren Hastings lasted seven years.

It was finally determined that no resolution, looking towards the impeachment of the President, be adopted, unless sanctioned by a vote of two-thirds of the republican members in caucus; that, in the meantime, all resolutions on the subject be referred to the Judiciary committee of the House without debate.

The caucus was in session two hours.

THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, Proprietor.

Gen. Early's Book.

Gen. Jubal A. Early has had printed, at his own expense, an edition of one thousand copies of his book on the Campaigns of 1864, in which he participated,—particularly that in the Valley. These are not for sale, but for distribution among his friends. He desires its re-publication in the South, for the benefit of the Menorial Association.

The Richmond Enquirer makes the following extracts from the "Preface."

"Under a solemn sense of duty to my unhappy country, and to the brave soldiers who fought under me, as well as to myself, the following pages have been written.

When the question of practical secession from the United States arose, as a citizen of the State of Virginia, and a member of the Convention called by the authority of the Legislature of that State, I opposed secession with all the ability I possessed, with the hope that the horrors of civil war might be averted, and that a returning sense of duty and justice on the part of the masses of the Northern States would induce them to respect the rights of the people of the South. While some Northern politicians and editors, who subsequently took rank among the most unscrupulous and vindictive of our enemies, and now hold me to be a traitor and rebel, were openly and sedulously justifying and encouraging secession, I was laboring honestly and earnestly to preserve the Union.

As a member of the Virginia Convention, I voted against the ordinance of secession on its passage by that body, with the hope that, even then, the collision of arms might be avoided, and some satisfactory adjustment arrived at.—The adoption of that ordinance wrung from me bitter tears of grief; but I at once recognized my duty to abide the decision of my native State, and to defend her soil against invasion. Any scruples which I may have entertained as to the right of secession, were soon dispelled by the mad, wicked, and unconstitutional measures of the authorities at Washington, and the frenzied clamor of the people of the North upon their former brethren of the South. I then, and ever since have, regarded Abraham Lincoln, his counsellors and supporters, as the real traitors who had overthrown the constitution and government of the United States, and established in lieu thereof an odious despotism; and this opinion I entered on the journal of the Convention when I signed the ordinance of secession. I recognized the right of resistance and revolution as exercised by our fathers in 1776, and, without cavil as to the name by which it was called, I entered the military service of my State, willingly, cheerfully, and zealously.

It was my fortune to participate in most of the great military operations in which the army in Virginia was engaged, both before and after General Lee assumed the command. In the last year of this momentous struggle I commanded, at different times, a division and two corps of General Lee's army in the campaign from the Rapidan to James river, and subsequently a separate force which marched into Maryland, threatened Washington city, and then went through an eventful campaign in the Valley of Virginia. No detailed reports of the operations of these different commands were made before the close of the war, and the campaign in Maryland and the Valley of Virginia has been the subject of much comment and misapprehension. I have now written a narrative of the operations of all my commands during the closing year of the war, and lay it before the world as a contribution to the history of our great struggle for independence. In giving that narrative I have made such statements of the positions and strength of the opposing forces in Virginia, and such reference to their general operations, as were necessary to enable the reader to understand it; but I do not pretend to detail the operations of other commanders.

I have not found it necessary to be guilty of the injustice of attempting to pull down the reputation of any of my fellow-officers, in order to build up my own. My operations and my campaign stand on their own merits, whatever they may be. Nor, in anything I may have found it necessary to say in regard to the conduct of my troops, do I wish to be understood as, in any way, decrying the soldiers who constituted the rank and file of my commands. I believe that the world has never produced a body of men superior in courage, patriotism and endurance, to the private soldiers of the Confederate armies. I have repeatedly seen those soldiers submit, with cheerfulness, to privations and hardships which would appear to be almost incredible, and the wild cheers of our brave men, (which were so different from the studied hurrahs of the Yankees,) when their thin lines sent back opposing hosts of Federal troops, staggering, reeling and flying, have often thrilled every fibre in my heart. I have seen with my own eyes, ragged, barefooted and hungry Confederate soldiers perform deeds, which, if performed in days of yore by mailed warriors in glittering armor, would have inspired the harp of the minstrel and the pen of the poet.

As was to have been expected, our enemies have flooded the press with sketches and histories, in which all the appliances of a meretricious literature have been made use of to glorify their own cause and its supporters, and to blacken ours. But some Southern writers, also, who preferred the pen to the sword or musket, have not been able to resist the temptation to rush into print; and, accordingly, carping criticisms have been written by the light of after events, and even histories of the war attempted by persons who imagined that the distinctness of their vision was enhanced by distance from the scene of conflict and an exemption from the disturbing elements of whistling bullets and bursting shell. Perhaps other writers of the same class may follow, and various speculations be indulged in as to the cause of our disasters. As for myself, I have not undertaken to speculate as to the causes of our failure, as I have seen abundant reason for it in the tremendous odds brought against us. Having had some means of judging, I will, however, say that, in my opinion, both President Davis and General Lee, in their respective spheres, did all for the success of our cause which it was possible for mortal men to do, and it is a great privilege and comfort for me so to believe, and to have been able to bring with me into exile a profound love and veneration for these great men.

In regard to my own services, all I have to say is, that I have the consciousness of having done my duty to my country, to the very best of my ability, and whatever my fate, I would not exchange that consciousness for untold millions. I have come into exile rather than submit to the yoke of the oppressors of my country; but I have never thought of attributing aught of blame or censure to those true men who, after having nobly done their duty in the dreadful struggle through which we passed, now that it has gone against us, remain to share the misfortune of their people, and to aid and comfort them in their trials; on the contrary I appreciate and honor their motives. I have not sought refuge in another land from insensibility to the wrongs and sufferings of my own country; but I feel deeply and continually for them, and could my life secure the redemption of that country, as it has been often risked, so now it would be as freely given for that object."
